

Scott D. Robinson

Founder and is a Managing Partner in the firm Kensington International

Scott is the company's Founder and is a Managing Partner in the firm Kensington International. His executive search experience since the company's founding in 1988 is combined with ten years of career counseling, job-search training and human resources management. Before Kensington International, Scott was Vice President, Human Resources and Administration for seven divisions of the Bally Manufacturing Corporation. Previously, he worked for Federal Signal Corporation as Director of Industrial Relations and Personnel. Scott holds a Master of Science degree in Psychology from Illinois Benedictine College, an MBA from George Williams College, and a Bachelor of Science degree in Psychology from Illinois State University.